

Accredo Cloud solution

The Accredo business management software solution is available via the Cloud – a computing model that lets you pay a regular operating expense to keep Accredo running at optimum levels for your business.

A Cloud solution deployment can provide reductions in IT-related time and costs and we partner with a number of hosting companies, such as ICONZ-Webvisions, OneNet and The Host, to offer this service. It is important to note that a Cloud deployment will not suit every business.

What is the Cloud?

- Cloud computing allows you to access computer resources – hardware and software – over an internet connection.
- Rather than having Accredo implemented on a server within your organisation, you pay a fixed monthly fee to access the Accredo software from a dedicated virtual server at a hosting company.
- Your data will be secure in a New Zealand data centre and available whenever you need to access the system.

Why choose the Cloud?

Maintaining computer resources to run a software application does cost money. Ongoing updates to the solution infrastructure can be expensive with unpredictable one-off costs. For small to medium business these costs can be a significant drain on capital expenditure and hard to budget for.

Cloud computing is sold on demand allowing you to have as much or as little of the service as you want. You only pay for what you need and it is fully managed by the provider – all you need is a computer and internet access. It allows you to smooth ongoing computing costs by paying a fixed monthly price to access the hardware and application. Or, in other words, it moves IT-related costs from a capital expenditure to an operational, consumption based model.

Benefits

- IT-related spend moves from a CAPEX to OPEX model
- Predictable IT costs that can be budgeted for in advance
- Flexibility to increase (or decrease) processing power depending upon the needs of the business
- One monthly payment covering software provision and fully managed hosting services
- Access Accredo via Terminal Server wherever there is an internet connection
- Frees up resources to focus on growing the business

Why Accredo?

You can customise the Accredo Cloud solution to match your unique business processes, it supports multiple user sessions and you can access it in or out of the office via an internet connection. Because our software has a scripting layer built-in you don't lose the ability to tailor the application to better suit your business – a common problem encountered with browser-based accounting software.

“We are partnering with Accredo to help their customers save on IT-related costs and resources with a fully managed Cloud-based infrastructure and software provisioning service.”
